History and Population:

Most of the communities forming the Sedona Verde Valley region were founded as farming and ranching settlements, beginning in 1865. Clarkdale and Jerome resulted from the discovery of rich mineral wealth in the Black Hills. Today, Sedona, Cottonwood and Camp Verde all have populations of approximately 11,000. Clarkdale is much smaller with 3,715. The 330 souls in Jerome qualify its reputation as the "Largest Ghost Town in America." The Sedona Verde Valley region celebrates "Small town U.S.A." and is home to the communities of Camp Verde, Clarkdale, Cornville, Cottonwood, Jerome, Page Springs, Sedona and the Yavapai-Apache Nation.
